OPEN FRAGMENTS

The idea of an open composition haunted me, so I started to play with @snapseed_app & @moldivapp and a question in my mind. Can I make an open composition starting from a closed one? ... and that's how the series was born (#openfragmentsseries)

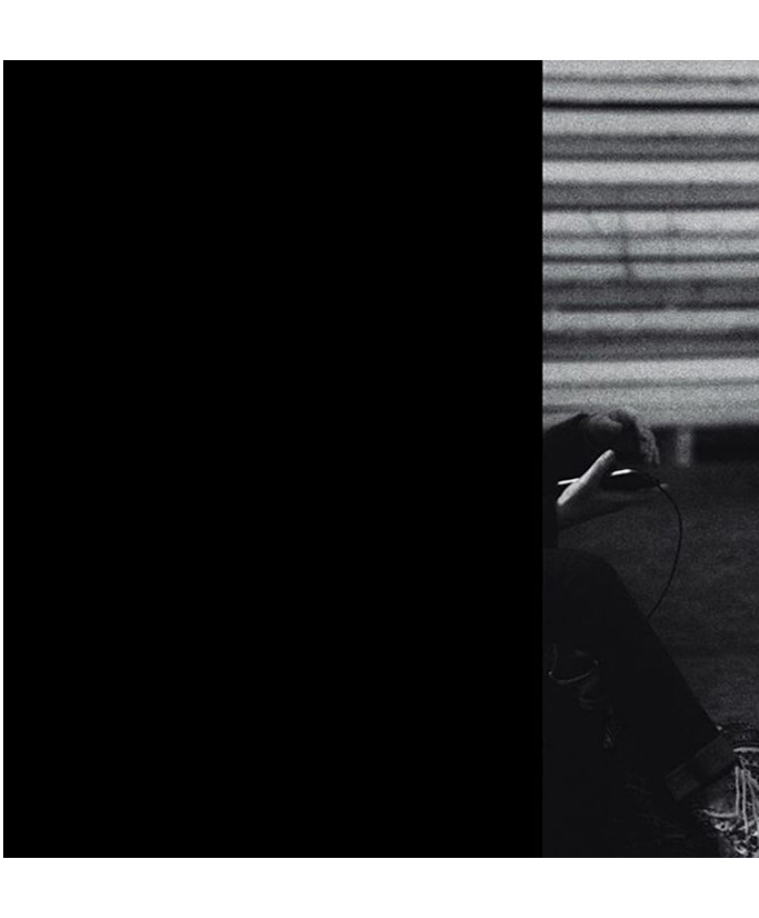
"I'M MORE INTERESTED IN A PHOTOGRAPHY THAT IS 'UNFINISHED'
PAOLO PELLEGRIN

Personally, I'm not a fan of binary structures and the word closed has a negative sound to it... so maybe mixed composition sounds much better ...anyway, the result is below, one click away...



THE CONCLUSION

No matter what changes it goes through, a good shot/photo remains good, still after we try to modify it, massacre it or change its framing

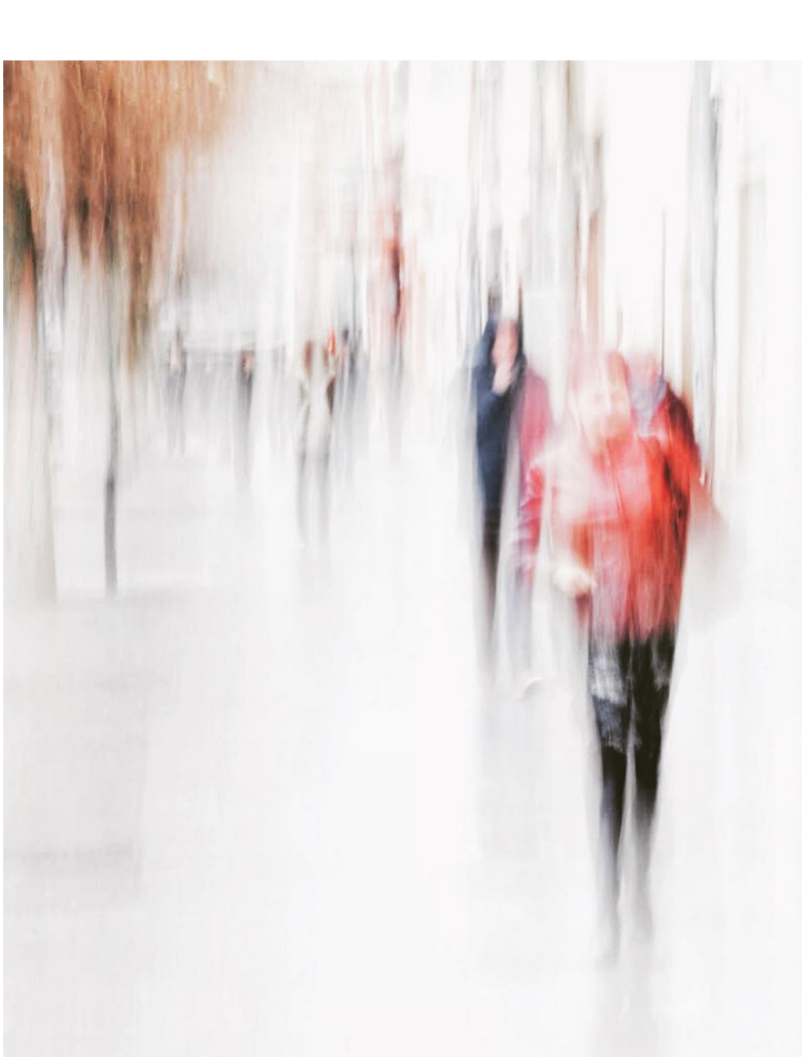
DREAMING MY DREAMS

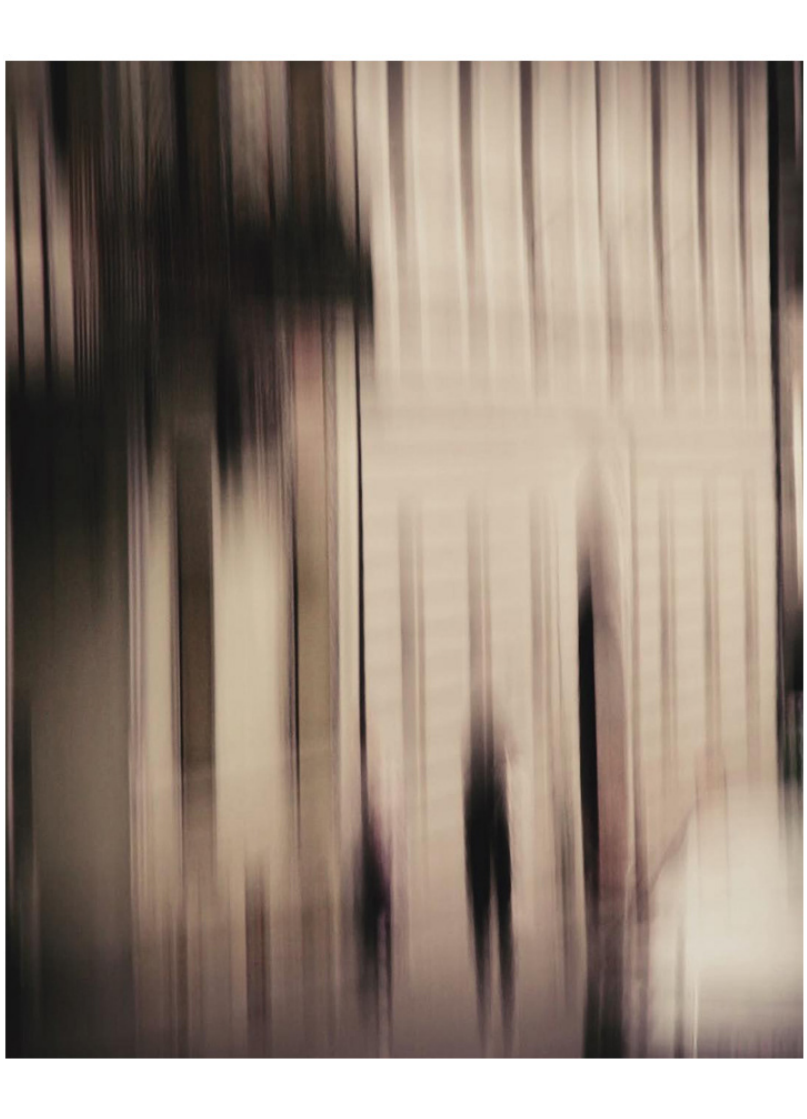
DREAMING MY DREAMS

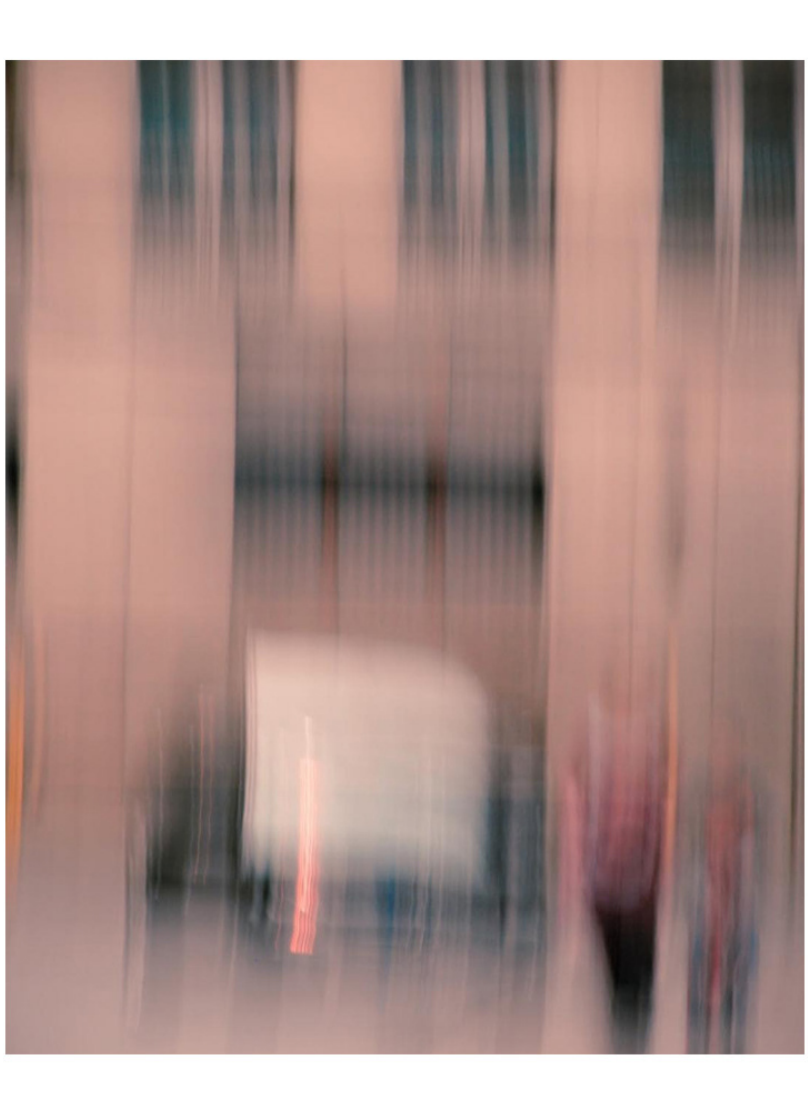
The next personal project that focused on the idea of open composition was "DREAMING MY DREAMS", I started having the previous project in my mind (a priming effect, I think) and inspired by the pictures made by Olga Karlovac

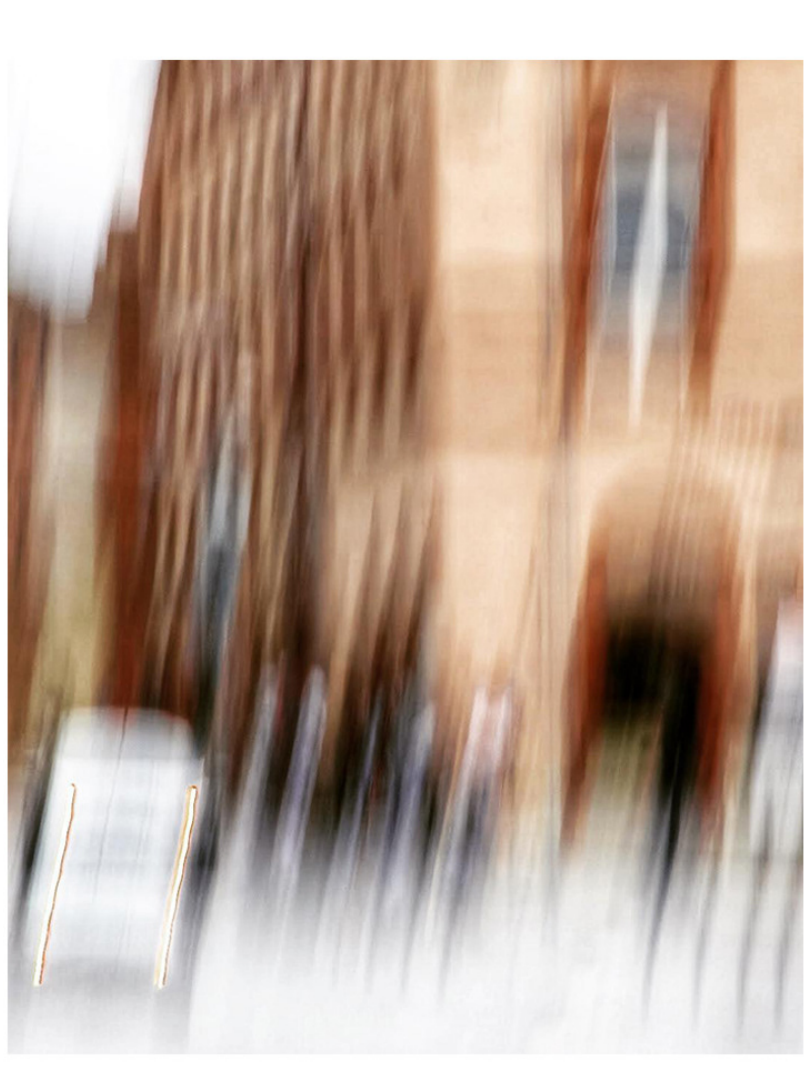
BLUR WILL SAVE THE WORLD

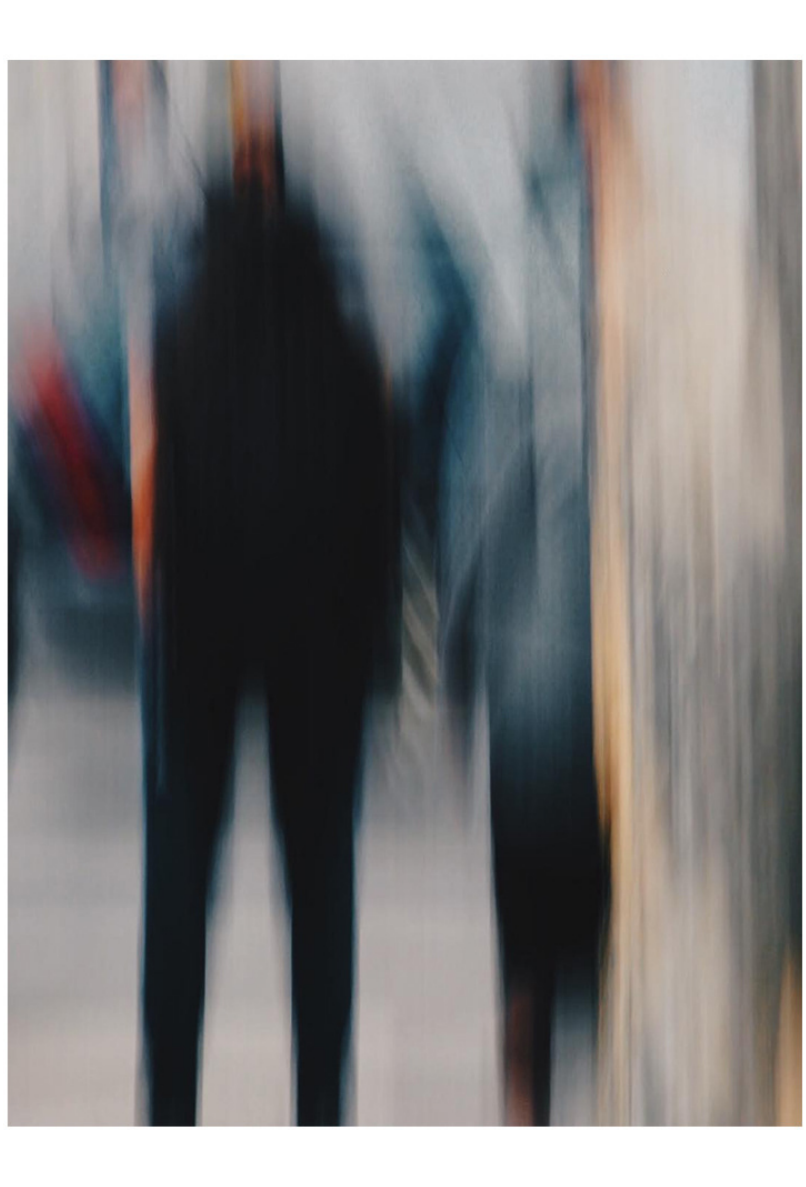
Can blur save the world? Hard to say and yet ... after the success of the first series of photos published online, I added a new layer, the color...











INSTEAD OF A CONCLUSION

"I'm more interested in a photography that is 'unfinished'—a photography that is suggestive and can trigger a conversation or dialogue. There are pictures that are closed, finished, to which there is no way in."
